

Great News for Employers

Stephenson College has recently been accredited with the prestigious Training Quality Standard (TQS) in recognition of the services we provide to employers.

This standard is the quality mark designed to help employers identify the very best organisations that provide high quality training and development solutions to employers.

The Standard is tough to achieve and the college underwent rigorous assessment to become a certified provider.

So as an employer you can be confident that the service you receive from Stephenson College will be of the highest standard.
